PRESERVATION OF A 600 YEAR OLD MING DYNASTY VILLAGE

Imagine a 600 year old, very picturesque and authentic Ming Dynasty village in the mountains 2 hours south of Beijing, where most young people left to find jobs in the city, leaving behind only the oldest generation who live there a hard, poor and remote life with little income through tough mountain farming. The village is in need of sustainable attention to keep up the beauty of its heritage, culture, life-style and traditions.

Shui Yu Village is an enriching sustainable destination experience, which can add value to your responsible meeting, where meeting delegates can help to preserve the village, sponsor some maintenance work, help the old farmers, engage in planting or harvesting and combine all with a unique scenery and traditional lunch, while the village will redeem with a small show of cultural and ethnic traditions.
